

Name of the Tool

Encyclopedia.com

Home Page

Logo

URL

http://www.encyclopedia.com/

Subject

Encyclopedias

Accessibility

Free

Language

English

Publisher

Cengage Learning

Scope and Coverage

This encyclopedia covers the following research categories:

“Earth and the Environment”, “History”, “Literature and Arts”, “Medicine”, “People”, “Philosophy and religion”, “Places”, “Plants and Animals”, “Science and Technology”, “Social Sciences and the Law”, “Sports and Everyday life”.

Articles on the above mentioned categories are taken from journals like Medical journals named “Medical Discoveries”; Business magazines like economics magazines (“The American Economy”), trade magazines (“Leading American Businesses”); Government magazines like applied and social science magazines (“Child Abuse and Domestic Violence”), legal and political magazines (“National Survey of State Laws”); Academic magazines like scholarly magazines (“Something About the Author”), science magazines (“Genetics and Genetic Engineering”), educational magazines (“Pollution A to Z”); Sports and life magazines like culture magazines (“UXL Newsmakers”), political and business magazines (“International Directory of Company Histories”), social science magazines (“Gambling: What’s at Stake?”).

The encyclopedia also provides information from following reference sources:

Dictionaries (e.g. “The Oxford Pocket Dictionary of Current English”, “The Oxford Dictionary of Phrase and Fable”, “The Oxford Dictionary of Abbreviations”, “The Concise Oxford Dictionary of Music”, “The Concise Oxford Dictionary of English Etymology” etc.), Thesauruses, Pictures, and Press Releases, Encyclopedias (e.g. “Worldmark Encyclopedia of the States”, “Encyclopedia of Education”, “Encyclopedia of Science and Religion” etc.), Almanacs, Transcripts, and Maps; News Wires, White Papers, and Books.

Kind of Information

The entries are arranged category wise (which are mentioned above). The entries include information gathered from different types of reference sources.

In the entry like “Gem” from the section “Mineralogy and Crystallography” under the sub category “Minerals, Mining, and Metallurgy” (it falls within the main category named “Earth and the Environment”), the information is provided from following sources:

The Columbia Encyclopedia, 6th ed., 2016

The Oxford Pocket Dictionary of Current English, 2009

World Encyclopedia, 2005

The Concise Oxford Dictionary of English Etymology, 1996.

The information collected from the Columbia Encyclopedia incorporates properties of gems, gem and diamond cutting, other gemstones, types of gemstones, precious and semiprecious gemstones (e.g. diamonds, emerald, pearl etc.), counterfeit gemstones. Various gemstones are hyperlinked which leads to further information on that particular gemstone.

The article also includes coloured images taken from Wikimedia Commons.

The article includes bibliographical references, provision for citing the article according to a citation style like MLA, APA and Chicago Manual of Style.

The information on “Gem” collected from The Oxford Pocket

Dictionary of Current English includes pronunciation, meaning, part of speech, usage of the word “Gem”.

Under the “Tools” option available in the right side of the entry, there are options like “Print this article”, “Print all entries for this topic”, “Cite this article”.

In another article named “Behaviorism”, the information are gathered from the sources like:

International Encyclopedia of the Social Sciences, 2008

New Dictionary of the History of Ideas, 2005

Encyclopedia of Science and Religion, 2003

Dictionary of American History, 2003.

The article also includes bibliographical references.

It includes pictures, videos where applicable.

Special Features

- ❖ Direct links to Facebook, Twitter, Instagram etc.
- ❖ This encyclopedia organizes information from different reference sources. It accumulates the information from renowned printed reference sources. Encyclopedia.com has more than 100 trusted sources, including encyclopedias, dictionaries, and thesauruses with facts, definitions, biographies, synonyms, pronunciation keys, word origins, and abbreviations. It gives the user on a particular topic the definition from dictionaries, an overview of the topic from encyclopedias, the synonymous and other type of relationships with other word (where applicable) and articles from other journals.

Arrangement Pattern

List of categories with their sub categories, list of all the reference sources used by the encyclopedia, list of reference entries from particular reference sources, all are found by clicking on the three horizontal bars button in the top right corner of the main page. The same lists are also found by clicking on the “Research categories” option, situated just beside the three bar button.

Categories are arranged alphabetically. The sub categories under categories and sections under sub categories are also arranged alphabetically. This encyclopedia covers the following research categories: “Earth and the Environment”, “History”, “Literature and Arts”, “Medicine”, “People”, “Philosophy and religion”, “Places”, “Plants and Animals”, “Science and Technology”, “Social Sciences and the Law”, “Sports and Everyday life”.

Within the category “People” there are sub categories like “Food and Drink”, “History”, “Literature and the Arts”, “Medicine” etc. Within “Medicine” there are sections like “Biochemistry: Biographies”, “Cell Biology: Biographies” etc. arranged alphabetically. Within the section “Biochemistry: Biographies” there are biographies of various biochemists (e.g. Joseph Needham, Har Gobind Khorana etc.).

The name of the reference sources are arranged category wise (mentioned above in the Scope and Coverage portion).

The free reference entries are also arranged alphabetically and provision for browsing by letter is available. Under alphabet “G” there are entries like “gam”, “Gambian”, “Gambling, sociology of” etc. are arranged in alphabetic order.

In the main page of the site the articles are also arranged under the headings named “Featured topics” and “Other popular topics”. The topics under those two broad categories are arranged in previously mentioned categories.

Remarks

It is easy for the users to get information on a particular topic from different type of reference sources under one roof in this encyclopedia. This encyclopedia provides information from printed popular reference sources which gives the readers an opportunity to bask in the effulgence of printed sources through the screen of electronic media.

Comparable Tools

- Wikipedia (https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Main\_Page)
- New World Encyclopedia (http://www.newworldencyclopedia.org/entry/Info:Main\_Page)
- Britannica.com (<http://www.britannica.com/>)

Date of Access

June 1, 2016